SELECTED POETRY.

The Lost Jeannette.
By AMELIA WOODWARD THORNTON.

Fair, ice-locked ship, where doest thou go?
Thy wreath with phantom sails unfurled?
What spirit o'er thy wrecked prow Hath mockery at the waiting world?

Thy shivering spars where Hope's knell rung, Dost thou sport sea-gull perch upon?
Alas! in solitude's ringing halls, Dost thou false light lure some sailor on?

Or drifting silent up the streams,
Or down the dunes' soft path, What woe light from thy still track gleams Till mothers hold their breath and fast?

Or seaward thou, with courage true, Along the wild Siberian shore, For brave hearts who, in thee, had sought To add unto the world's great store?

Or drifting thou the polar bear,
Or basking seal in midnight sun,
Or walrus in his icy lair, With sight they ne'er had gazed upon?

Or drifting thou the Arctic flame, Upstream from the mighty throat, Wherever Aurora writes her name Upon the earth's great northern porch?

Till blood-red light stains sheets that bill, Or on the dancing orange feet, While gleams through the darkness of thy hull, In lines of fire, thy name—'Jeannette'!

Where battleships with flame-tipped spire Reflect the crimson ice-bound flood, Till thou dost melt and show a fire Upon a surging sea-blood.

What ancient mariners thy deck Pace forth, with steps that give no sound?
What fate impels them, doomed wreck,
To keep for aye thy restless round?

No phantom ghouls our life paths trace, Which once had led the brave, young heart;
For us, as then, no resting place;
For them, no voice which says—'Depart'.

Sugared Fibs.

(From the Daily Pacific Commercial Advertiser.) A valued correspondent, whose letter appears in the PACIFIC COMMERCIAL AD-VERTISER (weekly edition) of Saturday last, makes some severe remarks on the members of the New York Sugar Ring. He also sends us extracts from leading New York papers, which show how completely the opponents of the Reciprocity Treaty have the ear of the Press of that city.
We take the following from the New York Sun of the 21st ultimo as a specimen of the rest, and also because of the threat it contains of an attack on the Treaty in a new form, viz., through the Customs Department, which is to be made when the sugar recently shipped from here direct to New York makes its appearance in the market.
There an "interviewer" who had been working up the subject, writes that, among others, a leading refiner said to him: "I do not care to go into details about the refining business at present, but it is of course a fact that a refiner who can use semi-refined, highly graded sugar—centrifugal sugar, as we technically term them—must have a great advantage over one who is compelled to work crude low grade sugars which have only been imperfectly drained of the melada by the old natural process, even without the added benefit to the former of no duty, while the latter pays an average duty of 25 cents per pound. No distinction as to grades has been made in the importation of Sandwich Islands sugar at San Francisco so as to attempt to make them conform to the plan of requirements of the treaty. But they will not escape so easily here. A vessel carrying a full cargo of sugar sailed from Hawaii for New York in February, and two more were to follow very shortly, similarly laden. They ought to get here in three or four months. I would not be afraid to bet that when those sugars are exposed on Skiddy, Minford & Co's tables—as they probably will be, if sent here to be sold on the public market—they will be found to rank with the high grade Cuban sugars, up to 13 and 14, Dutch standard, such as we would have to pay 35 or 40 cents per pound duties on. We have endeavored to get from the Treasury Department some intimation whether sugars of such grade will be allowed to enter duty free under that treaty or not, but this has have been unable to get any definite answer. But you may be very sure that we will interest ourselves about it when they come. Between 7 and 10, Dutch sugar, have to be allowed under the treaty, and properly none above 10, but the imports of Sandwich Islands sugar show that in 1881 there were imported 28,485,589 pounds grading between 10 and 13, and 43,049,613 pounds grading between 13 and 16, while only 5,573,905 pounds came within the proper limitation."

Our correspondent concludes his remarks on the subject with the following pertinent piece of advice:—"It is folly for you to sit down and fret over the matter; or, on the contrary, to say 'it will all come out right.' This is a matter that wants the best ability the Hawaiian Government can command, and 'eternal vigilance' will be only way to bring things out right." Now this point about the grade of Hawaiian sugars is one which especially needs to be treated with eternal vigilance, because if true, or whether true or not, believed to be true, it must necessarily prejudice the minds of many against the Treaty. It is months since it was amply refuted by figures taken from the records the United States Customs House. Yet here we find it repeated scarcely a month ago by men of intelligence and good commercial status in New York, and spread far and wide by the most influential journals of that city.

Drink Palmer & Co.'s Ginger Ale, only 75 cents per dozen, delivered to any part of the city.—ADV.
